Update on Macon Case:

This is only 90 percent confirmed, but we have good information that Kevin Barker, one of the confidential informants in the Starr/McCranie/ Kyser case, is a convicted felon on cocaine charges. If this is confirmed, then Mr. Barker will have some trouble explaining the photo we have of him with an AK-47 in his hands, also the personal handgun he owns, a 9mm P89 Ruger pistol. As you know, convicted felons cannot legally possess firearms.

We recently confirmed via ATF manual on electronic surveillance rules, that informants MUST be wired for every meeting that is listed in the status report. This is a relatively new internal ATF regulation that was brought about due to so many informants lying to their handlers for the reasons of getting paid. As previously reported, the ATF has admitted that there is no tape on some of the meetings referred to in the status report that we have a copy of. Once an operation by ATF is considered a "wired operation," then every meeting between informants and subject, that are listed in the status report, must have supporting tape. ATF has already declared this operation a "wired operation," by introducing taped evidence during the pre-trial hearings. We will have ATF agents that will be testifying to this internal regulation.

As you all may have heard, Jimmie McCranie is in solitary confinement, no reasons have been given by the Marshals. His attorneys are working to get Jimmy moved to better facilities.

Troy Kyser is doing well and in very good spirits.

Bob Starr is continuing his crusade inside the jail, he has tremendous support from the other inmates and many of the local law enforcement personnel. I talk with him about twice a day, and he's real excited about getting to trial and kicking some ass.

The transcripts of the taped meeting between Bart McEntire, Bob Starr, Jimmy McCranie and Shawn Gordon has been released by Jimmie's attorneys to Mike Perrin. I will be getting a copy of that soon. Mike tells me that there is some severely damaging information about ATF on that tape. I will have to clear it with the attorneys, but will try to transcribe this tape and get it out to the public. There is also other tape that the defense holds of other meetings between the defendants and agents of the federal government.

We are continuing to investigate other leads that have yet to be publicly disclosed, but our sources inside ATF say that the government has absolutley no case, and are extremely worried about this fact. In other words, they did not expect so much support from the militia, attorneys, press...and worst of all, their "fellow agents."

Photos of Danny and Kevin Barker are being circulated throughout the Southeast... due to this, we have already received one very good tip from another militiaman that wishes to remain anonymous. We are also running down a connection between informants inside the Georgia group and a well known federal informant from another state. Subpoenas will be issued come trial time.

We have people in the Macon area that are quietly talking to non-militia people. Public sentiment for the defendants is growing by leaps and bounds. Many "civilians," in the Macon area are referring to defendants as "political prisoners." We have also made some friends in the local press, who are doing there own investigations into the corruption of this case. The next couple of months should be interesting.

The investigation is going fine, but we are still in need of donations to help out with the families expenses. We appreciate the many folks who have helped out, but will definitley be needing more to make sure the families are okay until the defendants are released. Contributions can be sent to the below address. Also, I ask everyone to contact Jon at USA Features (USAFeature@gnn.com) and send them a buck or two for a raffle ticket on the shotgun, SKS and other items that are being raffled on July 4th to help out with the defense of the defendants in Georgia. I have been too busy to get these raffle tickets passed around, due to my involvement in the investigation, so Jon needs all the help he can get on this. PLEASE take the time to contact Jon and send him one dollar, if nothing else.

Bob also asked that ya'll write to him and send him as much information as possible. Any information you send cannot be stapled...it must be in loose leaf form, including magazines. The other inmates are real interested in the movement, so we need to get as much information as possible to them, as well as the deputies.

This investigation team and work will not stop after the Starr case is resolved, we fully intend to continue on and help other victims of government abuse. CopWatch is in full force and now has a focused agenda.

Thanks to all of you who attended the rally in Macon yesterday. The Starr family was really thankful for all of you who showed up in support.

The Macon Telegraph newspaper did a great article, if any of you want a copy, you can have them fax it to you. The article was on page 1B in Tuesday, June 11th edition. We also received some excellent coverage from the local television stations.

For all of you that are interested, as far as we can tell, no law enforcement attended this event. Approximately 30 militia people, along with Nancy Lord, held their hands up to be identified when Nancy asked if anyone in the crowd were guilty of the same political speech that Bob is being held for. These people were willing to turn themselves in to the feds, however it is extremely hard when no one is interested in arresting you. So all of you that were scared to death that we were all going to end up in jail.... you can put your mind at ease.

Nancy Lord, Mike Kemp and JJ Johnson delivered excellent speeches to the crowd. The audience participated in the question and answer session, and also interjected a few "conspiratorial" ideas themselves... with no one being arrested.

The post rally meeting in a packed out banquet room at Shoneys was hilarious, to say the least, everyone, including the Starr family was upbeat and happy about the rally's outcome. We even managed to engage a waitress in a little bit of "conspiracy" talk.

Bob Starr was held in "lockdown" throughout Monday evening's rally...we have yet to receive an explanation from the Marshal's office for this.

The investigation is going better than expected after this long weekend...many people previously not known to us, have come forward with more information about the informants. We also went back to the Starr property with witnesses and gained further knowledge and evidence on how the CIs planted the material on his property.

We also managed to nail down exact dates and locations of meetings, who was present, and also identifying everyone associated with Bob's organization.. from inception til present date.

Will keep you posted on further developements. I have some fairly good photos of the CIs, however they will not scan well with the equipment I have. I will be having color copies made to pass out to leaders of militia groups in the Southeast.

Ya'll have a good day and please send any donations you can.

I have obtained transcripts of a recent ATF meeting, at which a senior official in the Treasury Department states that when ATF testifies in court, many times their testimony may not be true. I know this is not surprising to all of you, including me, but, we now have ATF stating, in their own meetings, that they sometimes provide false information to the courts. This is not the only thing that is very detrimental to the Treasury in this document....it's chock full of goodies against this agency.

Before any of you ask, I cannot release this document to the public yet, due to certain legal reasons, and protection of my "friends" inside the ATF. However, I'm sure it will make it's way into the public arena, before too long.

Also, let me say, that the patriot movement needs to be cautious at painting all federal law enforcement as bad people, in the last month, I have learned that there are some agents who are good people, and are actively working to expose the corruption inside their own agencies. Some are working with me and providing tremendous help and documentation on the Starr case. Any of you that may want to call me a "fed" or "CIA Operative," due to this statement, then feel free to, but you will not be accusing me of anything new. Currently, according to a few in the movement, I am an agent provocateur, I'm taking money like a gentleman in South Dakota did, and the latest and greatest thing: I'm working as a CIA spook.

This brings me to another topic, the Bob Starr case. Some of the people in this movement have been getting their feelings hurt over the lack of information that the defense team has been making public, many have gone as far to accuse the whole damn team, including Bob Starr, as working directly for the government. One of the funnier one's came from a well known person in this movement, this person has accused Attorney Nancy Lord of working directly for Israeli intelligence Mossad (since she's Jewish). Many of these Morris Dees' poster children have spewed their accusations, but have yet to attend any function (pre-trial hearings -town hall rally) that the defense team and supporters have been at. They cite their reasoning by saying, "they must be bad, because I don't understand everything that's going on," yet they still refuse to be part of what's happening in Macon. They are worried about the personal lives of JJ Johnson and Nancy Lord, but yet they have not witnessed the many hours of work that these people have spent on Starr's case....hell....they haven't even called the Starr family and offered a word of support.

So, to all of you who are fully intent on furthering the government's and Dees' cause, please take me off of your e-mail lists, your phone lists and fax lists. I have no desire to communicate with you. If you are merely pissed becuse we will not release all our evidence in the case, well, it's not becuse we don't like you, it's because we don't trust you. Ya'll have no comprehension of investigation, court proceedings...and most of all, there is no way, you select few I speak of, could ever keep anything quiet.

For the many of you that have offered support, whether you have sent money, attended functions, or simply called to offer support, we really appreciate you.

Bob Starr did want me to tell everyone one thing. There has been a man at many of the court proceedings in Macon, named Frank Smith. Frank lives in Bolingbroke, Ga. He has been making a royal ass of himself to the media. Frank was booted out of Bob's group because of his radical ideas. Frank has made statements to the press that are totally against the militia movement and Bob Starr. I can only suspect that he is actively working for some agency in an attempt to hurt public opinion of Mr. Starr. Bob wanted me to tell all of you that Frank Smith does not speak for the Militia of Georgia. Period. If any of you are wondering who this man is, then show up at the next court date...he will be the one who is ranting like a mad man to anyone that will listen... the press absolutley loves him. I refuse to deny him of his right to free speech, however, I will set the record straight with the press, and inform them that he does not speak for the militia.

In closing, again, thanks to all of you who have continued your support of this case. We appreciate you for keeping it in the public eye, also, let me thank those people on the "inside" who have helped and are continuing to help. This is probably the biggest case to ever come about concerning the militia and Constitutional Rights. As I have said before, if this case is lost, then everyone in the movement should immediatley go underground or give up, because they will be coming for you shortly.

Below is a letter that most of you have already seen, this letter is a complaint against ATF Agent Bart McEntire, following this letter is a response I received from Bart's boss, Richard Fox, Special Agent in Charge.

Attn: Richard Fox

Dear Sir:

During my investigation of the Macon, Georgia case involving Robert Starr, many interesting facts have been discovered. My investigation leads me to believe that the only persons guilty of any crimes were the confidential informants, and possibly the agent in charge of these CIs.

I have interviewed many witnesses in this case, I can find no criminal acts committed by the defendants. In an internal ATF Status Report, dubbed "Operation Piedmont," leaked by one of your agents, there are many inconsistencies in CI 62 and 63's testimony, some dates are wrong, and much of their report seems to be amateurishly fabricated. This document also purgers ATF, by clearly showing an intent to target a specific group of individuals based on their beliefs.

There is also taped conversation between Agent McEntire and militia members that is very damaging to the agency and will show that McEntire seems to have an agenda against militia members.

In one audio tape, during a pretrial hearing at the federal court house. Bart McEntire, Resident Agent in Charge, BATF, Macon, was recorded, talking to a militia member from south Alabama. This militiaman was speaking calmly to McEntire, asking him about the Waco case. Mr. McEntire became highly upset, advanced towards this person, saying in a loud voice, "You're about to fucking piss me off!" This is recorded on tape, and other witnesses will testify to this altercation.

I feel this agent is dangerous to anyone he may target, and further ask that your agency fully investigate this case and Bart McEntire. If this man is allowed to continue to operate in the capacity of Resident Agent in Charge, I feel he will cause further embarrassment to your agency, and also cause undue hardships to any person he may target for investigation.

I am formally requesting an immediate investigation into the Starr case and the actions of Bart McEntire.

Sincerely,

Jeff Randall

Dear Mr. Randall:

This letter is in reply to your correspondence of May 28, 1996, regarding a conversation between ATF Agent Bart McEntire of our Macon office and a South Alabama militia member. While it is regrettable that the context of your letter is of a negative nature, I appreciate your willingness to share your concerns with me.

Upon review, I have forwarded a copy of your letter to the ATF Office of Inspection. As you may know, the Office of Inspection is charged with the responsibility of addressing allegations of ethical and/or professional indiscretions by ATF employees.

Again, I thank you for sharing your concerns with me. Please know that you are welcome to contact me at any time should you have questions or concerns regarding ATF, our employees or mission.

Sincerely,

<signed>

When fissile material, such as uranium highly enriched with the isotope U-235 compared to the naturally more abundant U-238 is gathered together in a significant enough quantity in a finite space, the atoms begin to interact. At some point, the "chain reaction" becomes self sustaining. This occurs in nuclear power reactors, and in "atomic" bombs.

The best illustration that I have ever seen of this is a demonstration seen on a Disney show in the late fifties/early sixties. A basketball court was carpeted with cocked mouse traps, each with a ping pong ball on the cocked striker. A single additional ping pong ball is thrown into the room, and the reaction is predictable. The thrown ball sets off a trap, which launches its ball and ricochets the thrown ball. These two trigger more, which trigger more, and in moments there is a huge, practically simultaneous launching of almost all the ping pong balls in the room.

Envision, if you will, the situation where the air is made "thick," hindering the flight of the launched balls. They strike with less energy, slowing the attainment of a chain reaction. Further, remove a portion of the balls from the traps. This is the situation analogous to a nuclear power reactor. The reaction stretches out, and a slower chain reaction is obtained. If the proportion of traps with balls compared to the traps without balls gets smaller still, it becomes impossible to sustain a chain reaction at all.

We all know that the FBI and all other police forces contain honorable men. We also know that, by and large, these honorable men are not in control, and are likely isolated and unknown to one another. The efforts of any ping pong ball (uh, peace officer) are so isolated that no other ping pong ball is launched by their moral and Constitutional efforts.

As the truth of our situation becomes apparent to more and more honorable peace officers, the proportion of "enriched" isotopes (Constitutionally aware and motivated) compared to "unenriched" isotopes increases. This places more ping pong balls on more traps. It is increasingly likely, therefore, that a chain reaction will begin from the actions of any single peace officer. The Janet Reno's, Louis Freeh's, and James Hayes' (Etowah County Alabama sheriff) devote much of their efforts to isolating loaded traps and removing ping pong balls. It is therefore our duty to preach the truth till we are hoarse, outpacing the efforts of the Reno's and Freeh's and Hayes', hastening the moment of critical mass and self sustaining chain reaction. Likewise, as Citizens, we are constrained to cock mouse traps and set ping pong balls among our sleeping brethren, the citizens. It is the media's and the politicians' work to uncock traps and remove ping pong balls, and to make the air more thick, slowing the reaction, with hopes of squelching the possibility of chain reaction entirely.

This is the duty of the militia, to scream the truth (calmly and rationally, of course) 'till we are hoarse, then to scream even louder. It is our job to enrich the citizens to Citizenry. At some point along the way, a critical mass will be achieved and a self sustaining chain reaction will begin. Then we scream some more, taking the self sustaining (but stoppable) chain reaction beyond the point of control (by the media and government) to a mass release of ping pong balls. Those who would control it shall be swept away, peppered to nothingness by flailing ping pong balls.

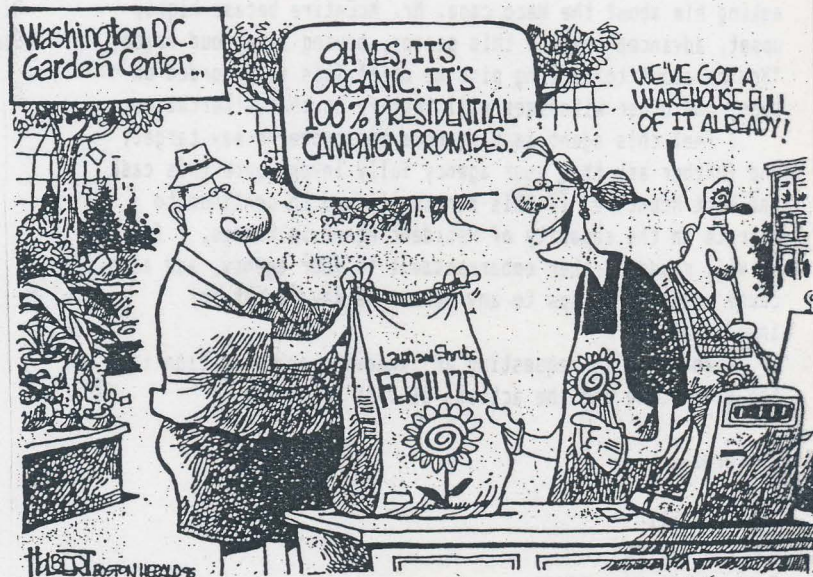

I say again: this is the duty of the militia. Should we provoke or invite direct confrontation, we shall be isolated and our balls removed (ping pong balls, that is). The tension shall be let from our springs. We will be uncocked, no lock necessary. This will be the result of our challenging with conventional force an adversary who abounds with conventional force, looking only for a conventional battlefield upon which to employ it.

We must claim the unconventional as our own, employing widespread initiative rather than concentrated leadership to load, cock and trigger our fellow Americans, changing them from citizens to Citizens. If we spend our efforts only to build platoons, companies and armies, we are preparing for failure on the battlefield of our enemies' choosing. Of course keep your conventional weapons-but realize that in today's war, already under way, the most effective weapons are the camera and the tape recorder, and the printed and spoken word.

Make no mistake: we are already at war. If you choose to hide and prepare for the struggle to come, you will have lost before it begins. Now is the time to win or lose. If we make our fellows aware, we will nuke our enemies in a flurry of ping pong balls. If we prepare for the struggle to come, and ignore the one at hand, they will napalm and strafe, isolate and destroy us.

Repeat after me: I hereby declare war on unconstitutional and anti Constitutional government and governors. My weapons for these days shall be the video camera, the still camera, with hide-out weapons of personal protection to be audio tape recorders. Those capable of operating heavy weapons shall employ the pen and the spoken word. Challenge our enemies, confront them. But, on our terms, within our rights, not where the rules allow our enemies to literally crush us.

William Michael Kemp

KEMP'S FREEHOLD: MILITIA DECLARATION OF APRIL 14, 1996

The first paragraph is intuitively obvious to the most casual observer, and requiring of no explanation to any American with even superficial knowledge of the Constitutions which govern us versus the current state of affairs in this country. Therefore, I feel compelled to provide the explanation, so that nothing will go unsaid.

The MOVE group was fire-bombed from a helicopter in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in the 1980's. The resulting conflagration killed men, women and children indiscriminately, and destroyed not only the target property, but at least a whole city block of dense residential neighborhood. In Viet Nam, that was described as "having to burn the village in order to save it."

Randy Weaver was entrapped by a paid agent of the ATF so that ATF could gain leverage on yet another citizen to force the citizen to act as their agent. He was given a false court date, then he and his family were surveilled with human and hardware assets for an extended period of time. While trespassing, agents of the U.S. Marshal's Service enticed the family pet, and subsequently members and friends of the family, into a killing zone, wherein one of the marshals, the family dog, and fourteen year old Sammy Weaver were killed.

On that basis, the FBI formulated special rules of engagement and sent eight snipers to assault the family. With two shots fired, this sniper team killed one and wounded two of the people on Randy Weaver's property. At that point, there was legal documentation of complaint against only Randy Weaver, himself; yet his son and wife lay dead. His son was shot in the back and his wife shot through the head while holding her infant. Kevin Harris, acquitted of all charges subsequently brought against him, was not "wanted," yet was shot in the back while fleeing a sniper. I shall not devote space to further cataloging the publicly known cases of abuse by the various alphabet soup law enforcement agencies.

The Constitution makes clear statements concerning what our lawful money is (gold and/or silver), and therefore is not. (unbacked paper). The Bill of Rights clearly states that the government shall protect the God-given rights of the sovereign citizenry, yet the concepts of warrants and affidavits and due process are completely corrupted. In very recent years many statutory laws have been passed to give pseudo-authority to government, in an attempt to give legitimacy to federal police forces, militarized police forces, and grossly intrusive overt activities by government agents and agencies at all levels. I will mention in passing the "good faith exception to the exclusionary rule," the telecommunications bill, and the authorization for a federal strike force. Specific to Alabama, an attempt was made (by a Democrat, a former FBI agent named Howard Hawk) to deputize all federal law enforcement acting within the state.

I need hardly even mention the pseudo-legal assaults on the God-given and Constitutionally protected right of the people to keep and bear arms.

Have I brought the first two paragraphs into somewhat better focus?

The third paragraph of the DECLARATION refers to the Declaration of Independence of 1776, wherein is discussed the right and duty of a free people to establish for themselves a government which will guarantee life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, further stating that when government so formed becomes destructive of its stated goals, it is again the right and duty of a free people who wish to retain their freedom to re-establish government supportive of these principles. The obligation is upon the people, who form government. Those who wish to remain free must be constantly vigilant, and must constantly assert their rights by exercising them. When rights are challenged, they must be asserted and protected. No one may do this for Americans save the free Americans sovereign in this nation. "Government" can not and shall not preserve our rights for us, particularly if we are unwilling to claim and exercise them.

The fifth paragraph is quite clear: no position is endorsed. There is only a demand for real due process, the airing of grievances in an open and public manner. We demand that the Freeman answer charges alleged against them; we likewise demand that the government follow the process laid out in the founding documents-that every agent involved at every level hold to their required oath to uphold, support, and defend the Constitution. Nothing less may be tolerated, nothing less will be tolerated. Otherwise, there is no law, only anarchy.

As is stated in the Declaration of Independence, while abuses are tolerable, it is the tendency of civilized men to tolerate them, hoping to remain in civilization. We are brought to the point of being no longer capable of tolerating the blatant abuse, for the simple reason that acceptance encourages the abuse. This is not a declaration of war. It is a necessary first step, a "placing on notice" that we are no longer accepting our abuse. However, neither is it a statement authorizing or even tolerating criminal behavior by any American.

Some short sighted individuals in the patriot community seem eager to use this statement and the paragraph following as an excuse to right criminal wrongs by engaging in their own criminal behavior, and to draw other patriots into this criminal behavior. As stated in the closing sentences, we remain children of God and answerable to Him for our actions. We must behave lawfully in order to preserve a lawful society for our posterity. Our posterity is the sole reason for our actions, for we are free, and know that we are free; as we live and die, we shall do so with this knowledge, as free men. This was preserved for us by our forbears, and we must preserve it so that the endowment of the generations yet to come is equally protected. The patriot community and the government are two sides itching for a fight, one to preserve freedom, one to secure tyranny. Neither side can afford to start the fight, and one side is actively seeking to cause the other to initiate open hostility. To preserve Liberty, to insure that we remain worthy of our Creator's blessing, we must not allow the situation to degenerate to open hostility. In this instance, whichever side starts the fight shall most likely lose.

The next-to-last paragraph concerns the lawful "next step" if we are to actually protect our rights, not just talk about the necessary action. It is lawful for Americans to challenge their government when that government would exceed its authority. This challenge was demonstrated by people of color in their demand for equal treatment. Confrontation with government need not involve violence by citizens against agents and agencies of government. One more killing spree by government will unavoidably arouse many more Americans, and Americans are notoriously "hard to handle" when aroused and exercising their rights. Does Uncle Sam and his grubby little minions really want to start dealing with whole bunches of angry Americans, demanding all-ALL their rights, all the time, for everyone? I work for just that conclusion, but I pray that government is not so self serving as to require us to take up arms to reclaim our rights.

I hear many tall tales concerning the situation at Justus Township. I hear that there are "criminals" inside who are simply fleeing prosecution. I hear that there are those inside, perhaps even a Federal agent, who wish the standoff to become a violent confrontation. I hear that the Freeman just wish to save their bacon by manipulating the militia into "backing" them. I hear that the feds are manipulating the militia, hoping for a misstep by the militia so that there will be an excuse to round up or exterminate us.

I will call the reader's attention to the fifth paragraph of the DECLARATION: no position is endorsed, on any side. The demand-nonnegotiable-is for due process to operate. If the government has a legitimate beef, let them air their grievances in a public forum, not in a "star chamber" grand jury with a subsequent a kangaroo court, which is their typical pattern. So far, all I know is that the feds think that a crime was committed in the District of Montana. As for the Freeman, we demand that they answer charges against them in a Constitutional forum.

The bottom line is this- we as citizens shall not take up arms against our government, but if government continues to take up arms against the citizenry, we shall have no choice but to respond in kind, or admit that we are become a nation of sheep, of slaves to an imperial government. I shall not live in a state of submission, and true to my Alabama heritage, I do dare to defend my rights. Wake up, Americans-if you wake up, we will all be free, and there will be no need of bloodshed. If you do not wake up and stand up, those who would steal our Liberty will be emboldened, and will respond with violence, and we who are not slaves will have no choice but to defend our lives and Liberty.

To all:

Boy, am I selfish, or what? The Freeman just got on the train (to get railroaded, no doubt, unless we keep screaming bloody murder), and all I can think about is my and our sorry hides.

I was amazed by Nightline: Ted Koppel described the federal government as having been #traumatized# by the violence at Ruby Ridge, Waco, etc. Well, I certainly am glad that they didn't get "traumatized" this time. Let us all hold fast to our resolve that there had better not be a #next# Waco.

In Liberty,
William Michael Kemp

Kemp's Freehold: Freeman Arrested

Well, folks, there was no bloodshed. And I didn't get to see the fibbies on perimeter at 40 below with a 40 mph norther a'blowing. My first thought is that they can't afford to have any more of those. Besides costing them a fortune several times over, they made the keystones cops look downright, steely-eyed efficient.

My next thought is to wonder about the Declaration at Knob Creek, and all those since who endorsed it. Did the Declaration have a positive effect? Yes, I think that it was important, if not instrumental in the absence of bloodshed. The ancient maxim of preparing for war to insure peace may have operated.

And, as for the signatories... As mentioned, the feds took a terrible beating over this. Now it is over, and they have a whole passel of folks mobilized, already organized. Are they now to put them to work on another hard nut somewhere, but perhaps not a nut as hard as the Freeman? Like a signatory, or his family or friend? Perhaps on something irrelevant, perhaps on something fabricated-Like the Bob Starr-Jimmie McCranie-Troy Spain case in Georgia?

Bob Starr was about to kick over ATF's apple cart, and they had to jump before they had sufficiently entrapped someone. So their confidential informers buried some pipe and end caps and (alleged) oxidizer, then gave the ATF probable cause to go dig it up. Of course, this was without the knowledge or consent of Mr. Starr, and was so testified by ATF in court.

Yet the Hizzoners involved seemed to think that not only was there probable cause to think that there had been committed a crime, but that the government's alleged perpetrator of said crime should be held without bond, contrary to his oath to this statement: "Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted."

This is of course not to mention "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

And, people, lest you say "They can't do that!" just remember- they already did. And they still are.

The Snowball Bill Gribble

And the snowball rolls! Yes the snowball is rolling and it's going down hill and it's going faster and faster and getting larger and larger. Progressive little thing ain't it? At first it was very small and it had no weight, and it had to be pushed or rolled around. It started to gain in size. At first it was small and it had no weight and the people paid no attention to it. It was light and could be thrown easily but could do no damage. The people paid no attention to it. Then after a little rolling around it grew quite large and became heavy. Now it could do damage but nobody could pick it up or throw it. The people paid no attention to it. Now here we are down in this valley and this massive big snowball is up there on the mountain and it's starting to roll down hill under the force of gravity. It will double in size each few feet and get heavier and go faster and faster. Now the people are starting to look up and pay attention. By the time it reaches us it will be too large and too heavy to divert or stop.

Our forefathers knew the dangers of central banks and debt money while they were writing the Constitution. This was one of the reasons for declaring independence from England in the first place. Central banks, debt money, strong controls and regulations, high taxes and tariffs and lack of sovereignty in the colonies. BOY! That sure does sound familiar!

Thomas Jefferson once predicted that with central banks and debt money we could see a period inflation followed by sudden deflation which would leave our children homeless.

The house has approved a raise for entry level folks and I'm sure that this will go all the way. This will help no one. This is strictly inflationary. It goes something like this. They give the entry level folks a 90 cent raise, then they have to give a raise to the folks who have been there like a year or more because they can't let the new man have more than the senior folks and it goes all the way up the ladder to the supervisor. He even gets a raise. To offset the escalating cost of labor the companies have to raise the cost of the product. INFLATION!

The Fed did not do anything to the prime this last quarter. I don't believe that rates can go down any lower than what we have now. The last time they did anything they only lowered it an eighth of a percent. Do you remember what happened back in the twenties. The unions were just getting started just after the turn of the century and they were coming on strong. Wages were going up every where, even the non union companies had to raise wages to keep step. Cost was going up at a fantastic rate. The Fed was working with interest rates trying to balance things, then the bottom fell out of it. Deflation! It took a bunch of years to recover from the depression that followed. The south didn't recover till the late 40s and early 50s. I can remember that.

This time they are getting better prepared than they were back then. They have two different currencies. One for domestic use and one for foreign use. They haven't been approved yet but I guess that doesn't matter much, they are already printing the money. This will come in handy for the richest investors. The economy will grow making them money and inflation will grow and when the time is right they just switch their investments from the domestic market to the foreign market. Instant deflation!! Nobody gets hurt. Well almost nobody. The folks that get hurt are the working men and women and the small business men and women. Since everybody owes for everything that they have, they are left with nothing. That could be the end of private ownership of land and property. Don't worry about it our uncle Sam will fix it. Of course this will mean relocation for some of us. Some of us will have to take temporary housing on some of the old military bases so we will be close to the places they plan for us to work. It might be a problem for us older folks since we can't work as hard as some of the young folks. I guess the real problem is us older folks we just keep getting in their way. As a matter of fact I plan on staying in their way.

OPINIONS BY CHARLI

DOLE FOR PRESIDENT????

I have a problem with our national news media hyping up Bob Dole. I realize that they are building him up in order to tear him down, and in doing so, they can reinstate Clinton. Beyond that, I have a problem with Bob Dole, period.

Why are the people so enthralled with Bob Dole? If it had not been for Dole NAFTA would probably never have passed. Another point to consider, Dole voted in favor of the Brady Bill. In 1995, Dole asked that "no assault weapons amendments be added in order to pass the terrorism bill", thus preventing an amendment to repeal the gun ban. In 1993, he voted for the Clinton crime bill when it contained a ban on semi-automatic firearms. Bob Dole even attacked the Gun Owners of America on the floor of the Senate in 1994 for their role in picketing him over the Brady Bill. Dole has publicly stated that "Larry Pratt has been giving me a fit for years". Larry Pratt is head of Gun Owners of America and former head of Pat Buchanan's campaign. Do we really want some one as president who is as anti-gun, anti-American jobs as Bob Dole? We must try to get Pat Buchanan into office. If Dole is elected we will have Slick Willy's evil twin in office.

Since I originally wrote this article, Bob Dole made his most telling statement to date. "NOW THAT I AM NO LONGER IN WASHINGTON, I CAN LISTEN TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND FIND OUT WHAT THEY ARE SAYING". Uh, Bob, excuse me, I thought that was the entire purpose of your being in Washington, to present the PEOPLES' views, not the lobbyists, not the big money, but THE P-E-O-P-L-E.

To whom it may concern

I hear some of the things that are being said around and it is a terrible time that we are living in. We can plainly see what is happening around us but there seems nothing that we can do about it. There just don't seem to be anyone that cares anymore. Our whole society seems to have turned into a bunch of self centered idiots. They see their neighbor arrested and they know that the charges are false because they know the person and they know that they would not do some of the things that are being charged against them. Yet they sit back and do nothing. I guess that their thoughts are that at least it didn't happen to them and if they get involved they will end up in jail themselves. Well you may be right they might put you in jail just because you know some one, or because you know about some one, or maybe because you don't know someone, or you don't know about some one. They don't need a reason any more to put anyone in jail. They make it up as they go along they put who they want to in jail and say they are dangerous and don't let them make bond and just sit on them.

I said that this was a terrible time, well I was wrong this is a vacation compared to what it's going to be. The reason that things are like they are is because no one wants to get involved. Government is out of control and making slaves of all of us. It don't matter if you are a poor person living on welfare or a multi-million dollar corporation you are still a slave to the political machine that is running our country. We are trying to get them out through elections and they are struggling hard to keep their power. The tighter the grip they can get on the people, the tighter they can hold on to what they have. If people don't wake up soon then they will have too tight a grip and you won't be able to get loose. If you look back in history you will see that most people who were enslaved went into it with their eyes wide open.

When you see some liberty being taken away from someone even though it is something you don't agree with it is still a liberty taken away from you. Quit being so self righteous and trying to mandate how other people should live, because every liberty that is taken away from them is a liberty taken from you.

Jesus thought us that we should love our neighbor as our own self, or in other words we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us. If we are doing this then we are not allowing his liberties to be taken away. If he is unjustly jailed we stand beside him and fight for his freedom and we help as much as we can to take care of his family till he is free to do it himself. Freedom is not being free to just be left alone but you also need to be concerned for your neighbor. You need to be concerned for his freedom for this is what creates your freedom.

Thank You Bill Gribble

Who is burning our Churches? Bill Gribble

It seems that according to the media that only Black Churches are being burned. I have done a little checking and listening to the radio. I find that out of the last 51 Churches that have been burned, half of them have been White and half were Black. Actually it was 26 of one and 25 of the other and as far as I can figure thats pretty close to half. A survey was taken on Church fires that went back to somewhere in the early to mid 80s, out of 185 Church fires 38 of them were Black. If you look at percentage ratios that might mean that more Black Churches than White Churches, yet the number count would indicate the other.

I hope to look at this issue and with your help come up with a solution to this problem, if that is possible.

Who is being attacked? Is it Christians? Is it someone trying to cause strife between the Black Folk and the White Folk? Is it just copy cat burns? Who would profit from something like this? There is a answer to each one of these questions. I hope to find these answers. How come that the media only told about Black Churches being burned? At least up until today, I understand that they reported finally that other Churches were being burned. That may be because my wife sent them an e-mail and asked them what's going on here.

Who would have something to gain by attacking Christians? Maybe they are just trying to intimidate them. Christians are a major power in this country. There's a lot of them and they vote, they work in all areas of the labor market, they own a lot of businesses, they congregate at least once a week where they could talk about almost any subject they wanted, and they pay taxes. If I was a political power in Washington and I felt my position was in jeopardy, I can see where intimidation might be very helpful especially with such a powerful group.

Who would have something to gain from creating strife between Blacks and Whites. A civil war would certainly benefit certain people in this country. For instance if we had a civil war, no matter how small, the president could call in the military, it would give him reason to disarm the people, and then he could call in the U.N. peace keeping force and set up martial law.

If it is copy cats out there then they would see the story in the paper or on T.V. and I guess that they would receive certain gratification from that.

I really can't think of too many other variables at this time, unless Reno is trying to start another police force. She is trying to start one to police our internet systems and I think we already have too many police systems.

How about some feedback. Who would make money from something like this happening? Who would have something to gain?

The whole problem with this movement is that there is a lot of support for what we do, but people are too damn lazy to get off their dead asses and do something productive, besides bitch. No one ever gives a shit until it's their own ass in a sling...then they expect the whole world to give a damn. This deal in Macon, has really put me to thinking about this movement...especially the militia movement. Don't get me wrong...there are a lot of people who have helped and are continuing to help, but the majority in this movement are all talk. They would rather bitch about some personal conflict because they don't like someone, than to think of the good of the whole movement. Then we have those who say, I support what you do, but I can't be public about it. Well...Hell, they could send a dollar or two anonymously to the cause of freedom. No, they're waiting for everyone else to test the waters before they commit to anything. Mark my word, Jon, if the government told everyone tomorrow that they had to turn in all their guns...I can guarantee that resistance would be small.

One thing that did impress me about Alabama was the fact that we had a candidate for US Senate who openly supported the militia movement, he lost his ass in the primary after receiving 10,000 votes. That tells me that even though he lost, we still have 10,000 quiet supporters for what we do. Now, if we could get these people to open their mouths, we could change this country. This man was not afraid to come to our militia rally, be photographed, do interviews and say what was on his mind.. in front of God and everyone else. Now...I have a hell of a lot of respect for a man like that. People like this are the only incentive I have to continue working with this movement.

My attitude of this movement has changed drastically in the last couple of months. At first, I was all for killing 'em all and let God sort 'em out, but I have come to realize that many in the movement are worse than those we are fighting. Hell, I have met a few ATF agents that I have more respect for than some militia members.

My plans for the future are to continue to fight corruption...on either side. Everything that's going on is not necessarily government's fault...most of the blame is with the folks who won't get off their dead ass and do anything about what's happening. The people who support people like Starr, but are too damn lazy to even send you a dollar for a raffle ticket. Again, there has been tremendous support from many in this movement, but 30 percent of that support is from non-militia folks.

It takes individual effort to ever right the wrongs... a small percentage of this movement has been carrying all the weight of the battle on their shoulders...this small percentage amounts to a lot of people, but what the hell's wrong with all of these other folks...especially the radical one's that raise hell everytime law enforcement or government does something...but you never see the folks at a rally... you never see a dollar from them to help out with the victims... all you ever hear from them is "advice," over the telephone, fax or email. Too many armchair warriors in this movement... too many wannabes....too much talk ....too little action. I'm sorry, but I have lost all faith in this movement, as a whole, but I have gained a lot of faith in those who have always been there...ready and willing to help.

Yeah...I'm still in this movement, but not as a "typical" militiaman, instead as someone who is going to continue to stand up for things that are right, help those who are victimized, be it government agents, patriots or common civilians. I've made a hell of a lot of friends doing this, and met a lot of good folks...from all walks of life. I have also met a lot of people I have no use for...people who use this movement for personal gain or glory seeking. It's not hard to see the difference. These glory seekers, then call everyone who has done something productive a damn fed, or CIA agent. This is usually done out of jealousy. It's done because someone did something productive for the cause and the glory seekers were too damn scared to get behind it until after it was over with. The only way they have of keeping their reputation is to label someone. You mark my word, when Starr is acquitted, everyone in the country, that did nothing, will claim responsibility and it will be the greatest thing that ever happened. If, however, he's convicted, then these glory seekers will say the reason for it was because everyone working on the case was a fed, or he had poor representation. I remember Coughatta, I remember a militiaman in Michigan taking 100 percent credit for the peaceful surrender. The only reason Lynn Crawford surrendered is because he had no choice (it's hard to have a choice with support from only a dozen militamen)...not because Mr. Adams negotiated a peaceful solution. Have you ever noticed that all these people that take credit for something have never showed up on the ground while the battle was going on? You know why? It's because they want to be on the winning side... if their man loses then they can point fingers and say they had nothing to do with it, but if their man wins... then they take full credit. Too many damn "officers" in this movement...where are the enlisted men? Every militia meeting you go to has 90 percent of the people wearing some kind of officer rank...everyone's a damned colonel, captain or lieutenant. I have yet for anyone to introduce themselves as a militaman, or better yet, a Constitutionalist ...without some kind of rank. This whole rank structure is bullshit...the only way you gain leadership is thru integrity and trust. This is a voluntary movement, no one controls anyone else. You want to know why the general public thinks the militia is a bunch of wackos, then look at the fools running around with BDUs and ribbons on their chest, totin' an AK... you want to change public perception, and actually do something productive for the cause, then get you a camera and some street clothes and start investigating and exposing corruption. Start rallying around someone who has been wronged by government, start preaching the Constitution everyday, talk to the press and talk radio, not about toting guns, but about government corruption. You don't have to have a damn rank or be in a militia to do that. I've heard all the "bad-ass " talk coming from gun totin' militia "special forces" personnel, hell, half of them wouldn't know how to properly dress a wound or care for a snake bite. The real funny part is that most of them are legends in their own mind, they're "waiting for the war to start," and they are too illiterate to realize that we are already at war, and the only way to properly win by beating the "enemy" in his own system of rules and to educate people. And the only way to do that is by getting involved. Once again, these "SF" wannabes are waiting for someone else to take point. God have mercy on this whole movement.

Jon, you may be mad, but I'm pissed. Not pissed because anyone has let me down, but mad because people have selfishly let a lot of good folks carry this movement. So, I wouldn't expect too much response on the raffle. The "leaders" of the militia are always bragging about the large numbers who are true militia members...I've heard numbers as high as 10 million. They say they are just staying "underground," you and I both know that most of that is bullshit. Hell, if that were true, then you would be receiving anonymous third party dollar bills from all over the country.

Jon, let the rally go on, if you have problems raising enough money to pay for the shotgun, let me know, I'll personally send you the remainder.

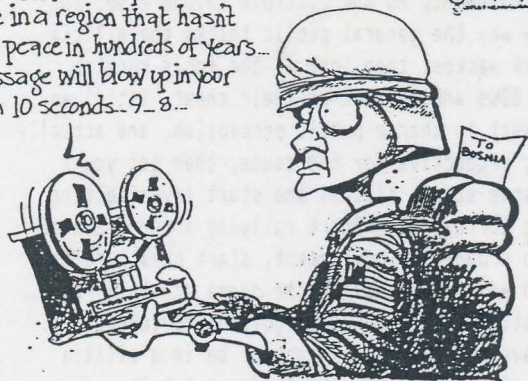

I'm sending this out publicly, and hope to God everyone distributes this. As far as myself, I'm going to continue to network with those who have put their heart and soul in this movement...the Mike Kemps, Mike Perrins, Bob Starrs, Martin Linstedts and many others too numerous to mention... and let's not forget the press people, a few ATF and FBI people and several others who are trying to do the right thing, but I am finished helping these lazy ass armchair warriors.

Jeff Randall

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

As Hilbilly says, (Hello on the wire... Is anybody out there???)

I'm here to add to the comments of Jeff Randall, concerning a *patriot academy.* Jeff mentions the investigative and confrontational aspects inherent in the demonstrated expertise of the Gadsden Minute Men. The real investigative talent in this venture is Jeff. I, on the other hand, contribute guerilla theater tactics, motor mouthing in the public and press without stepping on anyone's appendages but o.p.'s (other peoples')... and knowledge.

Knowledge of all sorts of things, from history to school-teaching, medicine to mechanics, ordnance, chemical warfare, industrial mechanics, practical electricity, philosophy, writing...

Think about a patriot academy. Think about a school where patriots can be taught how to not only investigate, but properly use or expose the information. Think about a school where patriots can be taught media and public management (guerilla theater, remember?).

The militia is not an army. It is a power base, the armed citizenry. It is said that knowledge is power. Well, then, let's lose the notion of structure and command and rank. Lose the notion of guns, guns, and violence. If we fail, then we must admit our failure in our dying day.

Meanwhile, let's learn to disarm the media. For every insigniaed officer in BDU's talking the end of the world, let's have a hundred, or a thousand Blue-jean Bob's catching politicians with their weenies out, knowing where to look, how to capture it, what to do with it when you have it, and how to keep the media sharks from eating your catch, and maybe you too in the aftermath. Learn to buy life insurance with the media, not be destroyed by them, or destroying yourselves with the kindly assistance of a media Dr. Kervorkian (sp?).

I have beat my head against a wall for 10 these years, wondering how to motivate folks, to show their support-physical, financial, any old way would help. And it is just not there. Perhaps with the hard core few that we have, we can spread the word that harassing our governors and chaperones and proctors and keepers is almost as much fun as sex, and a whole lot safer and cheaper.

The Patriot Academy would provide *live-fire* exercises. For instance, how would you like to be on hand, filming, when it was your phone call to the po-leece chief that got the poleece shift sergeant to come chew the ass off a black-and-white driver on the sidewalk right in front of you? Or just plain chase off four FBI agents who were going to harass a man for writing an (albeit nasty) political letter? Learn from the experts. Individual initiative and a little bit of knowledge... support, then learn from (ahem, a modest bow) the experts.

HELLO FRIENDS!

Time again for a weekend outing, learning about our friends in the plant kingdom. This time we will journey to Collinsville, Alabama (on I-59) to a location near our herbalist Daryl Patton. You will want to bring cameras as this area is laced with nature's beauty. We will be in and around what is called "Yellow Creek Falls" and "Little River Canyon". This will be a two day event on Saturday, June 29 and Sunday, June 30. We will spend Saturday hiking around identifying plants that can be used for food or healing. We will also cover other outdoor survival skills. Saturday evening we will have a covered dish supper, so all that will join in, bring your specialty dish, drink, etc. and we'll have a good time. On Sunday Steve, Dayle and others will give talks on First-aid, knot-tying, repelling, food storage, and what ever else we want to explore.

For the overnigheters, you have two options--motel or under the stars. A list follows with motels close to where we will be. For the ones who want to camp--bring your camper--tent, etc. and join us by the camp fire. I will have more detailed instructions later on where we will camp. If you would, as soon as you seen how many in your party are planning to come, please let me know. If you have any questions, please feel free to call me.

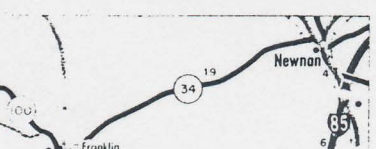

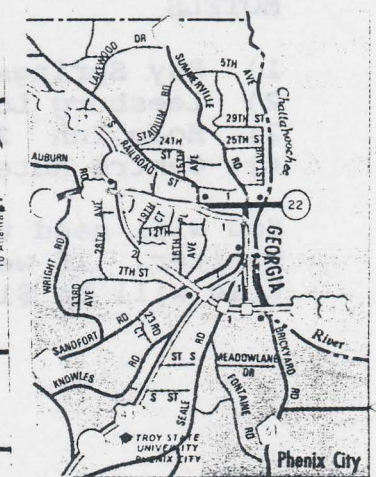

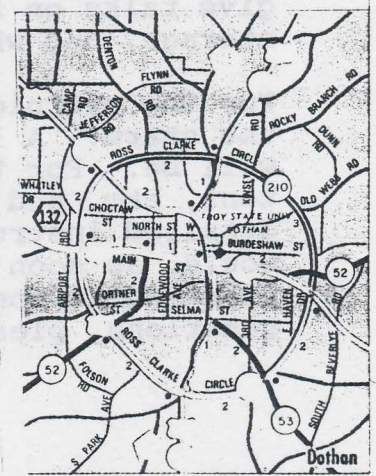

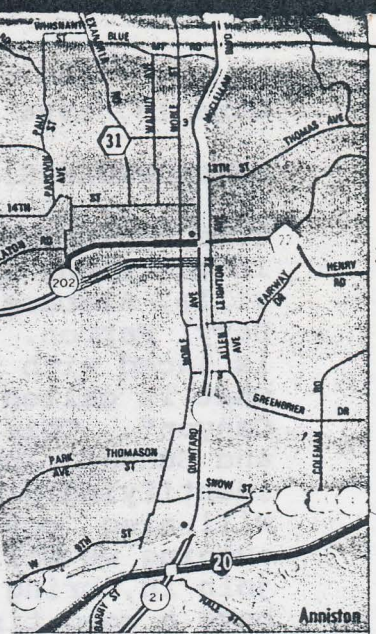

Gary Bass      615-967-5681

You will need to make your own arrangements for food and shelter. If we have 15-20 people, the charge for Daryl's time will be $10.00 per person.

WHAT PRICE UNITED STATES MARINES?

This story has been lurking about for more than a year now. It has been verified in articles in the San Francisco Examiner and in an OpEd piece in the Wall Street Journal last year by Stephen Schwartz. Now he has written further details in the May, 1996 issue of the Soldier of Fortune magazine.

On 21 May, 1995 Romeo Gilberto Osorio, 48 appeared on the "60 minutes" with Ed Bradley conducting the interview. In El Salvador Osorio was Chief of Operations of the PRTC the most violent group of the guerrilla forces fighting the government. It was in connection with a discussion of American military advisors and their role in the Salvadoran War that he revealed to Bradley that his group had made an attack on four unarmed marines in a cafe in San Salvador the capital of El Salvador. Osorio did not participate in the attack. He said during the TV interview "We made it a point to target some American servicemen in order to make a point to Congress."

The incident occurred at about 2030 hours on 19 June, 1985, a group of seven armed men drove up in a truck to the vicinity of several restaurants. Four unarmed United States Marines in civilian clothes who were assigned as guards at the U.S. Embassy were eating their dinner in a nearby restaurant, Chili's. After assuring themselves that the Marines were there and without warning the armed group poured gunfire into Chili's. Dead in the attack were Sergeant Thomas T. Handwork, 24 of Boardman, Ohio; Corporal Gregory H. Weber, 22 of Cincinnati, Ohio; Sergeant Bobby J. Dickson, 27, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama; and Corporal Patrick R. Kwiatkowski, 20 of Wausau, Wisconsin. At this time only military advisors were allowed to carry sidearms because the press in the United States was critical of any appearance that U.S. military forces might be entering the war on the side of the El Salvadoran government. Also killed were two American civilian employees of the Wang Corporation, two Salvadoran students and a professor, a Chilean executive of the Wang Corporation and two other local businessmen.

The history of Mr. Osorio is unusual in that he is an American citizen born in this country. He went to El Salvador as a child with his mother but came back to the United States and was educated at the San Francisco State College. He then served in the United States Air Force as a mechanic. In 1977 he founded the Mission cultural Center for Latino Arts, Inc., a non-profit agency with a current budget of $300,000, receiving money from the San Francisco Hotel fund, the National Endowment for the Arts ($30,000) plus other public and private entities. During the civil war in El Salvador he returned there to serve in the guerilla forces. He had been trained in the United States in guerrilla tactics and night fighting by the "Committee In Solidarity with the People of El Salvador", CISPES. He said the training was conducted in outlying areas near San Francisco. Incidentally other American volunteers for guerrilla forces have been trained by that agency including Lori Helene Berenson who has recently been convicted by the Peruvian government as a participant in the Movimiento Revolucionario Tupac Amaru (MRT) and sentenced to a lengthy prison term.

Within two months after the assault two of the perpetrators were arrested and charged but the wheels of justice grind slowly in Central America. It was not until 1988 that another was arrested and confessed in open court to the murders. In 1989 Pedro A. Andrade, a captured guerilla leader, was charged but, after having led the Salvadoran government to the largest cache of munitions ever seized from the guerillas, he was granted amnesty. Of the first three, two have served four year sentences and another received a 25 year term. A fourth member was reportedly killed in a later battle with government forces and a fifth accomplice was acquitted because he only provided security for the shooters. Although this may not seem to be justice as we see it, a more significant fact is that Andrade appears to have been granted asylum in the United States and now lives in New Jersey. Also Romeo Osorio, now 48 years old, is pursuing a pleasant existence in San Francisco where he has resumed his career as a sculptor and functionary at the Mission Cultural Center. His salary is being paid by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and other federal, state and private agencies. Just in case this man's story gives you a warm, fuzzy feeling it will help to read the following quotes from his interviews by reporters from the Examiner and Stephen Schwartz. Schwartz reported that Osorio described the marines as a target of opportunity and that unarmed men eating their dinner were easier to kill than the military advisors in the field and he stressed that the killing occurred "only five blocks from the headquarters of the Salvadoran high command . . . in the heart of bourgeois power." In other interviews he told the San Francisco Examiner that "We were all jubilant". He also said that the participants were trained in Cuba for this special job.

There are some loose ends. There is an unsubstantiated report that the government learned the identity of the participants within a few weeks when a high level functionary in the guerilla movement gave them the names. On 12 October, 1995, Senator Shelby, R (AL), requested a closed briefing by the CIA, Justice Department and the Department of State. At the end of November Shelby was joined by Senators Arlen Specter, R (PA) and Bob Kerry, D (NE), in demanding an accounting from Secretary of State, Warren Christopher, whether U.S. authorities had adequately pursued justice in the case. There has been a suggestion by Senator Shelby that Andrade or Osorio or both served the U.S. while in Salvador. If this is true it is unlikely that any intelligence agency will ever admit it.

Note: It is strange that the death of a guerilla leader in Guatamala, who is the husband of an American citizen, causes the Guatamalan government to be hauled to account before the United Nations General Assembly yet these marines are being treated as just victims of a war. This is a subject that demands some sort of resolution. Are these American residents guilty of murder and accessory to murder? Is Mr. Osorio being paid a salary from a grant by the National Endowment for the Arts?

A letter has been sent to Senator Shelby, (R) AL quoting these articles and asking if there can be some resolution of this crime. If the reply to the correspondence is significant it will be published in the club monthly newsletter.
